1. We are most delighted as members of the Njala University Family to welcome you all to join us this morning for our Fourth Postgraduate Congregation ceremony held separately from the Undergraduate Ceremony for the conferment of Higher Degrees and Awards of Postgraduate Diplomas.
2. Mr. Chancellor, Sir, let me take this opportunity to heartily welcome graduands, parents, guardians and sponsors, friends, and the well-wishers; and for us as a university, and, indeed, for Sierra Leone as a nation for joining us today to celebrate these achievements. Thank you all for being here today.
3. Mr. Chancellor, Sir, I am pleased to announce that today, we shall be witnessing the award of a total of 1, 226 Postgraduate Degrees including Seven (7) PhDs (6 Males and 1 Female) one (1) MPhil, of which 896 are males and 330 are females, Congratulations. Let us give ourselves a round of applause. Let me also most sincerely thank the members of the Senate and Court, as well as the Administrative and Academic staff for their continued guidance and support for these achievements.
4. Staff Development: Mr. Chancellor, Sir, our staff profile is gradually improving at the postgraduate, and for this congregation alone, we have the following higher Degree completion: one (1) MPhil and seven (7) PhD candidates. Staff upgrading is given high priority, and urgency it deserves in the Higher education transformation, innovation and business enterprise as additional core values of Njala University. I am also happy to announce to this floor of congregation that the University added to its staff profile six (6) additional professors to its professorial rank significantly justifying the Harmonized Tertiary Education Commissions Criteria for the assessment of Academic Staff. Njala will always serve as a model for other Higher Education Institutions in Sierra Leone.
5. Also, Mr. Chancellor, we are providing colossal amounts yearly in Tuition Waivers to staff and children of staff; supported staff on study leave both within and without the country and provided 0% loan interest to staff. All these are geared towards settling these staff in a policy to redirect staff attention to the workings of the University.

Below is table 1 for payment made in the respective categories as tuition waivers to staff, spouses, and children, as well as children of communities in our operational Districts.

Table 1: Summary of Tuition Waivers for 2024/2025 Academic Year

Category	No. of Staff	Student	Total	Total Amount
Postgraduate	4	14	18	717,188.00
Undergraduate	12	97	109	835,090.00
Community		62	62	408,395.00
Grand Total	16	173	127	1,960,673.00

6. Mr. Chancellor Sir, with support from the Commonwealth of Learning (COL), and in collaboration with Tertiary Education Commission (TEC), an institutional Open Distant Learning (ODL) and Open Educational Repository (OER) policy has been developed, including ODL course development/enhancement and integration with ODL courses. Within the partnership agreement with COL, the University has also developed its employability framework with the aim to “Building Employability Capabilities for better graduate job outcomes”. The purpose of the framework is to assist staff and students to get a better understanding of employability, and how to implement employability strategy, assess their institution’s readiness for employability and enhance their curriculum with employability skills.
7. Also, Sir, Njala University, the Association of African Universities (AAU) and eLearn Africa has signed collaboration agreement for the design and development of Master of Business Administration online modules for the programmes offered by Njala University. The partnership is providing Njala University with inexpensive tools to incorporate eLearning solutions quickly and efficiently for blended and fully online academic programmes.

The eLearn Africa Learning Management System (LMS) platform (CANVAS), makes learning easier for students. All learning materials are made available and accessible, providing a solution to the massification of classes and other related contextual factors.

- 8. Research Grants from Source Revenue: Mr. Chancellor, Sir, at the 18th March, 2023 congregation last year, the University set aside in the 2022-2023 budget, the sum of Le 500,000 to fund staff research activities in the University. I am happy to report to this floor of congregation that the said Le 500,000 resource was almost exhausted by significantly turning that resource into remarkable results as shown in table 2 below. The University provided this basic support that enhanced grant proposal writing skills on winnable projects. In that light, some academic staff and their students benefited significantly. This is in acknowledgement that a university becomes relevant only when it contributes immensely to the advancement of knowledge.

Table 2: Breakdown of Beneficiaries of the Grant Awards

Beneficiary	Research Type	Total Amount (Le)
. Prof Alie Mohamed Bah	Rice Brand Publication	12,500
. Prof Philip Foday Yamba Thullah	Research on Local Music	120,000
. Mr. Claude Dimoh	INSLACS Week	134,000
. School Technology	New Varietal Rice Production and Distribution to Farmers	120,000
. Animal Science	Artificial Insemination	97,000
Total		484,003

- 9. Research on Sierra Leone's Traditional Musicians: Mr. Chancellor, Sir, The Institute of Languages and Cultural Studies (INSLACS) conducted a project to document the practices, challenges, and cultural significance of Sierra Leone's traditional musicians. The project included a biography book, articles, and a documentary film, providing accessible historical records for a wider audience. From November 23rd to 24th, 2024, the University unveiled the findings of this project. The occasion drew musician participants and dignitaries of the Ministry of Tourism, Academics, Cultural Enthusiasts and Policy Makers from across the country. The participation underscores the Ministry's collaboration with Njala University in promoting and preserving Sierra Leone's cultural identity. This collaboration brought together our shared commitment to celebrating and safeguarding Sierra Leone's cultural heritage. The project was fully funded by the University.

10.ENABLE SLARiS Support to Agribusiness Development in Njala

University: Mr. Chancellor, Sir, we are in the process of establishing an Incubation Centre to enhance agribusiness development and youth empowerment. This programme will follow an integrated farm ecosystem in close resemblance to that of the Songhai Model in Benin. The Centre will comprise of infrastructure development, small ruminants (including native cane rats) and aquaculture production, irrigation for inland valley swamp (IVS) development, gearing towards sustainable agricultural capacity building complimentary with Feed Salone.

11.Mr Chancellor, Sir, Freehold Land Ownership by Njala University is significantly improved. All operational areas of NU have been resurveyed, some available lands paid for, and others pending payment. Concurrently, the Conveyances have been signed by land-owning families for freehold in Bo Campus, and the Henry Street Building in Freetown Location housing the graduate School. Those for Njala Campus, Bonthe Campus and Pujehun (Wonbay) are in progress.

12.Under my Leadership and with your significant and Court support Sir, the establishment of another Campus called the KOWAMA Campus for Schools of Medical Sciences, Public Health and Nursing had been approved by the University statutory committees. This has paved the way for the second Medical School in Njala University, Bo Campus to address the country's limited trained health personnel. The two-year Pre-Med programme started their classes in the School of Basic Sciences, Njala Campus last academic year and will be transferred to the School of Medical Sciences at Kowama Campus upon successful completion of the Pre-Med.

13.Additional Resource Mobilization: The University under my leadership and Court support Sir, is now producing academic regalia for all programs as a business venture and as a major source for the mobilization of additional resources, thus putting resources into significant use. Help thank the Court for the purchase of the relevant machinery for this purpose which has significantly enhanced the functionalities of the Institute of Food Technology, Nutrition and Consumer Studies.

14. Mr. Chancellor, Sir, we recognize that while we are on the right track to put the University on its trajectory for human capital development, there are still key challenges ahead of us. Among these existential challenges, there are three key areas of great concern for swift interventions:

First: The Administration is under considerable pressure to implement capital investment initiatives it has decided in effort to satisfy the demands of the staff for housing and enhance the quality of life for students in areas of hostel and internet connectivity. We are therefore pleading with our visionary leadership at MTHE, the Talk and Do Government, our Local, National, Regional and International partners here present and remotely following this programme to consider us within their respective tight fiscal space.

Second: The University is still using and relying on Thermal Power to generate electricity and water supplies of our staff and students in a predominantly rural environment that can be considered for rural solar electrification even at cost recovery. We are calling on the Talk and Do Government, the Alumni Associations, Friends of Njala University for swift intervention to provide additional localized solar energy system, that would enable smooth, stable and sustainable management of students' hostels, staff accommodations, the classrooms, laboratories and libraries as stop gap measures in our development strides.

Third, Mr. Chancellor, Sir, the non-payment of benefits owed to retirees and survivors of deceased staff with substantial amounts equally owed to contractors and suppliers dating back to 2017, some of whom have started filing lawsuits with the University is also a cause for serious concern that require swift intervention to bring back the Past Glories of Njala University. As at now out of the 45 million Leones outstanding, the University has been able to pay 22 million from our meagre revenue sources from fees collection and project overheads, leaving the arrears of 22.7 million outstanding by December 2024. With the retirement of other staff by September 2024, we were urged to look into additional payments to retirees for the period 1st January to 17th February 2025 to the sum of 2.2 millions from fees collections, leaving outstanding arrears of 20.5 million outstanding.

Concluding Remarks

Mr. Chancellor, Sir, Njala University remains committed and continues to devise strategies to support the Government's flagship programmes. The NU Restructuring Document approved by Senate and Court has invariably expanded the current operational Campuses (Njala Campus in Moyamba District, Towama Campus in Tikonko Chiefdom, Kowama Campus in Kakua Chiefdom, Bonthe Campus in the Sherbro Island, Bonthe District, and a satellite operational location in Pujehun Town, Pujehun District) with a total of fourteen (14) operational Schools. We remain committed to outcome-based education for self-employability in the development of our economy. We have encapsulated community drivers' approach for youth in community contract farming to respond to FEED SALONE in the best way possible in an achievable timeframe. Once more, we thank you for your unwavering support toward the development of higher education in our nation.

As a way of concluding my address, Mr Chancellor, Sir, we want to assure the nation that the implementation action in the establishment of the second Medical School in Bo and first Veterinary School in Njala will enhance and strengthen our capabilities in human capital development in these professional fields. Once more, we thank the Government for the unwavering support and the invaluable commitment so far for the development of sustainable higher and technical education in our beloved nation.

THANK YOU ALL, GOD BLESS YOU AND I WISH YOU A HAPPY CONGREGATION CEREMONY
